

Brainwashed - Hood

Written by Jon Whitney

Saturday, 26 March 2005 19:00 - Last Updated Tuesday, 25 June 2013 15:17

Hood may have not been the first "rock" band to start incorporating choppy electronic rhythms (or to include Anticon members!) but they've certainly been doing it longer than a number of your favorite bands. Their live show has always been rhythmically more bombastic than their somewhat subtle recordings, accented by a noticeably louder setup which includes a more prominent drum arrangement. We caught up with Chris and Steven from Hood on their latest brief US tour for some words outside before they went to pillage Boston's finest record stores